

Why do my brakes squeek?

Contributed by Web master
Wednesday, 12 May 2004
Last Updated Monday, 18 January 2010

The brakes are designed to make the squeeking sound once the pad thickness is reduced below the recommended level. The brake components should be inspected and repaired at the first sign of squeeking. rear brakes should also be inspected for wear and or fractures..